Jihad & Truce: one framework, two decisions

Mutahhari, A Survey into the Lives of the Infallible Imams · Chapter 2: Imam al-Hassan's Pacifism (Sessions 1–2)

DEEP READING · BOOK 02 · DERIVED TEACHING DIAGRAM

A teaching framework drawn from Mutahhari, not a ruling for modern conflicts

STAGE 1 · THE JIHAD FRAMEWORK — Is there a lawful ground to fight?

A conflict confronts the Imam, the leader of the Muslims

DEFENSIVE JIHAD

Is a non-Muslim enemy attacking Islamic land, lives, property or sanctuaries?

YES → Defensive jihad

Obligatory on every Muslim, man or woman, free or not. No Imam's permission needed.

e.g. an invader occupying a Muslim land

NO → FIGHTING REBELS · Q 49:9 (1)

Is a Muslim faction in armed revolt against the lawful, sitting Imam?

YES → proceed to Stage 2

NO → ENJOINING GOOD (1)

Is the Imam instead protesting a ruler who violates Islam?

YES → proceed to Stage 2

NO → No ground to fight

Starting a war on non-Muslims who have not attacked needs the Imam or his deputy.

Antecedent jihad: adult, free men

> These all resulted from the differences in their circumstances.

HOW TO READ THE TREE

- Imam al-Hassan (a) · dark green · aftermath: poison
- Imam al-Husayn (a) · blood red · aftermath: bloodshed
- Principle applied (answer YES)
- Principle did not apply (answer NO)
- Not on either path: the law, but not their case
- (1) Numbered badges link a box to the scorecard below

Colours mark each route, not a causal output of the tree.

STAGE 2 · THE TRUCE FRAMEWORK — Must we fight now, or is a truce lawful?

TRUCE · MUHAQQIQ'S TEST (3)

Is a lawful truce on offer: time-bound, protective terms, no demand for allegiance?

YES → TRUCE · STRENGTH TEST (2)

Is the force loyal and strong enough to win without years of Muslim bloodshed?

YES → Fight on

Strong enough, and a truce gains nothing? Then a truce is not permissible.

'Ali at Siffin: the stronger Iraqi forces fought 18 months

NO → TRUCE: al-Hassan steps aside

Book and Sunnah, no successor, no cursing of 'Ali, safety for his followers, no allegiance.

Precedent: the Prophet at Hudaybiyyah (3)

NO → DUTY TO RISE (4 5 6)

Have all three conditions for rising ripened?

- Allegiance is demanded
- The wrong is manifest and proven
- A prepared base calls him

YES → RISE: al-Husayn refuses

Allegiance demanded and refused. Kufah's 18,000 letters. 72 loyal companions. A protestor's honourable death.

An honourable stand, even unto death

NO → Not yet: expose first

The duty to rise is not 'produced' until the ruler's true face shows.

Al-Hassan's peace did exactly this for al-Husayn

THE SIX PRINCIPLES — HOW EACH ONE APPLIED TO EACH IMAM

1 Sitting head of state?

- ✓ Caliph in the seat: his death would be the caliphate's defeat
- ✗ No office held: his stand is a public protest

2 Loyal, reliable force?

- ✗ Kufah split: chiefs bribed, desertions at Nukhaylah
- ✓ 72 trained companions; almost none deserted

3 Lawful truce on offer?

- ✓ Signed blank page: time-bound, protective clauses
- ✗ Only a pledge of allegiance was demanded

THE THREE CONDITIONS FOR RISING (4–6): al-Hassan 0 of 3 · al-Husayn 3 of 3

4 Allegiance demanded?

- ✗ None: the treaty required no pledge
- ✓ "He must pledge his allegiance"

5 Binding call from a prepared base?

- ✗ Kufah divided, hostile factions active
- ✓ Kufah's 18,000 letters: an ultimatum

6 Wrong manifest and proven?

- ✗ Not yet: Mu'awiyah's written terms promised religious rule
- ✓ Rules changed, blood shed, an unfit son made heir

Same law. Different circumstances.

Neither Imam changed the law. The circumstances changed the answer.
